GRANDMA USED SAGE
TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to bring back color, gloss, thickness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

STATE BANK FIGURES SHOW
GREAT GROWTH IN ONE YEAR

If prosperity is reflected by bank deposits and resources, then Arizona is prosperous.

In a set of figures, compiled by Secretary Harry Welch of the Chamber of Commerce, from the annual reports of State Auditor J. C. Callahan for 1915 and 1916, can be glimpsed one phase of the increasing wealth of the state. In fine, the increases, amounting to a fraction above 45 per cent in the case of total bank deposits, and to over 37 per cent banking resources and to nearly 50 per cent in the case of Phoenix bank deposits, is a fact that can be demonstrated not alone on paper, but in bettered business conditions.

Phoenix and Salt River Valley Banks are not a whit behind the institutions of the rest of Arizona. Nearly $3,000,000 has been added to the deposits of Phoenix and a trifle over that amount to valley banks since the 1915 report of the auditor was made public.

STATE BANKING FIGURES

Deposits		1915	1916

There were thirteen National Banks in Arizona in 1915 and there has been no increase in numbers during the year. In 1915 there were 47 state banks and four new banks have been added during the year ending May 1916. In all there are 64 banks in the state today.

INSURANCE MEN ARE PLEASED WITH ARIZONA

The New York Life Insurance company invited about 35 of its best agents to Phoenix, Ariz., to meet Hamilton Cooke, inspector of agencies, St. Louis; Wm. Hughes, agency director of the Kansas City branch and Heath Moore, appraiser of loans for the west, with headquarters at Kansas City.

I. J. Johnson, agency director entertained his distinguished guests at a banquet at the American Kitchen on Friday in order to give them a chance to meet some of the leading citizens and business men of Phoenix. The following were the guests of Mr. Johnson at this banquet:

C. M. Scott, superintendent of the Arizona & Eastern; H. J. McClung, president of the Phoenix National Bank; John D. Loper, superintendent of schools; R. E. Moore, manager of the Valley Bank; Judge Sloan, Judge Ross, John O'Malley, L. T. Carpenter, Internal Revenue Collector, Dwight E. Heard, W. S. Goldsmith, General manager of the Santa Fe R. R.; Jas. S. Griffin, Dr. E. W. Baum.

On Saturday morning the agents held an informal meeting in the splendid new offices of the company on the corner of First avenue and Adams street. At 1:30 they sat down to a banquet in the dining room of the Adams hotel. Sunday morning they motored out to the Country Club where a delightful breakfast was served. After lunch Mr. Johnson left with his guests by automobile for the Roosevelt Dam, returning Monday evening just in time for them to catch the train over the Santa Fe for Kansas City.

The Arizona branch office is in a flourishing condition, having written $1,624,000 to date. The members of the reception committee were Jas. A. Rogers, of Tucson who exceeded his allotment by the greatest amount of paid business, having paid for $150,000 since the first day of January and exceeding his allotment by $100,000. Geo. P. Howe was the second member of the committee, having written 35 applications since January first; H. D. Tanner was the third member of the committee having written $125,000 since January first.

Fourteen agents of the Arizona branch pledged themselves to be members of one of the clubs this year, as the club year closes July last. Mr. Cooke said that if the Arizona branch office produced 14 club men this year, it would be the biggest bunch of club men that any branch office in the United States would produce and that he would personally give a solid gold watch to the member of the club making the best record during the month of June.

Mr. Cooke, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Moore were all very much impressed with the Roosevelt Dam and the Reclamation system and also with the fine new quarters of the New York Life. As a result of the visit of Mr. Moore, the company will place loans on Phoenix business property for about $70,000. The New York Life now has over $50,000 loaned on Phoenix real estate; over $1,200,000 in state, county and municipal bonds, and over $600,000 loaned to its policyholders. In addition to this, they own a number of railroad bonds of railroads entirely within the state.

Recruiting Headquarters, Mesa, Ariz. To the press: Will you kindly correct, through your columns, a misunderstanding which seems to be general regarding the condition under which all recruits now being sent to the border are enlisted.

The enlistments are made in National Guard of Arizona from which, immediately upon arrival at the point of mobilization, the recruit is transferred or mustered into the federal service. Being mustered into the service of the United States does not mean that the man is a member of the regular military forces but is simply a member of the National Guard mustered into his country's service during the existence of an emergency and when the emergency which call him to the colors ceases to exist he will have the privilege of being discharged or of enlisting in the National Guard.

The man who was a member of the National Guard when his organization was called out will be transferred back, with his organization, into the service of his state as soon as his services are no longer required by the federal government.

JOSEPH E. NOBLE, Capt. 1st Ariz. Inf.

ENGAGEMENT COMES AS SURPRISE TO ALL

tention to Wed This Month:
Pretty Luncheon Scene of Announcement

The engagement of Miss Katherine Kennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa B. Kennan to Harry L. Hurley is announced. The wedding will take place this month. The announcement was made at a beautifully appointed luncheon given by Miss Harriet Hurley yesterday and created no end of comment among the guests. Although the girls have been close friends since the Kennans came west from Newport four years ago, Dame Rumor has not coupled the names of the young people and the engagement came as a distinct surprise as well as a pleasant one.

Miss Kennan is one of the most popular and attractive members of the exclusive set. She has many endearing qualities and her graciousness is one of her greatest charms.

Mr. Hurley belongs to a prominent pioneer family. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Hurley of 707 South First avenue. He is a native son and received his early education in Phoenix, later attending college in Poughkeepsie. For the past two years he has been managing one of his father's ranches but will shortly take over an interest in a local business establishment.

Several events will be given in honor of the charming bride-elect before the June wedding which will be a family affair at the home of the bride's mother 215 East Culver street. The luncheon given by Miss Hurley in honor of her brother's fiancée was beautifully arranged. A pink color scheme was used in decoration and was carried out in La France roses and shaded candles. Envelopes sealed in butterflies contained the announcement cards. Covers were laid for Miss Kennan, Mrs. Asa B. Kennan, Mrs. P. T. Hurley, Mrs. Alice E. Henderson of New Orleans; Mrs. Paul Renau Ingles, Miss Mae Hurley, Miss Mildred Stacy, Miss Ruth Almsworth, Miss Ellen Conway, Miss Marion Deris, Miss Rose Bell Goldman, Miss Kate Wilson, Miss Selma Goldberger, Miss Ruth Jessop, Miss Winifred Waite, Miss Eugenia Kennan, and Miss Eleanor Sloan.

SEVEN COMPANIES
NOW MUSTERED IN

Official Report Gives Welcome Information from Militia Camp on Border at Douglas

In an official report received yesterday, Colonel Harris, adjutant general of the Arizona guard, was notified officially that Companies A, D, E, F, H, L and M of the First Arizona have been mustered into the federal service. This leaves five companies to be mustered in, all of which are ready and waiting.

Companies B and G have been up to the required number of men since the thirtieth of May. Captain Taylor reported that he has been receiving supplies from the government and that he had issued new uniforms to Company L. From now on, they will be given new khaki uniforms. The O. D. uniforms are too warm for summer duty on the border.

The number of officers and men in camp reached the 900 mark yesterday. Recruiting is still progressing, but not nearly as fast as the officers on the border would like.

HOPES TO AVERT STRIKE

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] NEW YORK, May 31.—Roland B. Mahoney mediator representing the United States department of labor, appeared today before the biennial convention of the International Commercial Telegraphers' Union in session here in an effort to avert a threatened strike. He will confer tomorrow with representatives of both sides of the controversy.

U. S. PLANNING
A PERMANENT
ARMY HIGHWAY

Decidedly more than a suspicion is cast on the talk of withdrawing the second United States military expedition into Mexico by facts which have become known to a Republican representative yesterday in connection with army preparations to make permanent repairs on the military road from the Columbus base camp to Nimitiquipa. Uncle Sam has ordered from one western concern, a large quantity of corrugated iron culverts, to be delivered at the base camp—certainly intended, though not definitely stated, for use on the rough, cross-washed road from the border to the "head of navigation."

The understanding between Washington and Mexico City whereby the American army has been deprived of the use of the Mexican railways has resulted in the mobilization of a motor truck squadron, that has made history in American armament circles. So efficiently have the trucks been handled, there is now no doubt that the United States, with its superior motor resources, would be able to surpass any European feat of mobilization by the gasoline route.

This has been accomplished in spite of road conditions that were execrable to start with, and grew no better fast under the constant passage of the heavily laden transport trains. It is true that General Pershing instantly realized the need of road improvements, and detailed a staff of engineers and a number of workmen to stay with the highway and keep it clear for traffic. It was soon found that in spite of all the engineers could do, the road would be useless in the event of rain, that the dry arroyos would fill and hack large chunks out of the right of way. The answer was: culverts.

There is an abundance of cheap lumber in northern Mexico, near the line of the American military road; the entire country about Casas Grandes is timber covered, and there are many small and several large sawmills. The fact that the government bought iron, instead of accepting cheaper wood culverts, adds strength to the presumption that the boys will not be out of the trenches by election time this fall.

AMUSEMENTS
GREAT OFFERING

The scenes of "The Dumb Girl of Portici," in which Anna Pavlova is the great attraction, the two hour motion picture that is now running at the Lamara theater, are said to be laid in the kingdom of Naples in the beginning of the Seventeenth Century that age when the rich thought the poor existed to supply the wealth of the kingdoms for the nobles to squander. Naples like the other Bourbon kingdoms, Spain and France were given over to lavishness and luxury among the nobles and poverty and rage among the masses. This sort of setting it can be easily seen provide splendid contrasts for the producer of a motion picture to use to the greatest advantage, and this the Smalleys have done. But there are other attractions to the picture save the work of so renowned artists as The Smalleys. The work of Anna Pavlova, the incomparable, the world famous Russian dancer is portrayed in a picture even to greater advantage almost that the opera production can be staged as a legitimate production. One advantage is that the queen of pantomime as Pavlova has proven herself to be needs not the human voice to increase her effectiveness. Her acting and dancing are enough for that. So remarkable a spectacle as "The Dumb Girl of Portici" as they worked for the camera and car-
